SPRING CLASSES:

Getting to Know God: Knowing God the Father

This course will introduce the student to the core teachings that present God's revelation of himself in the Bible with special focus on God the Father. Course topics include: the nature of God, God as triune, God's plan and providence, God's sovereignty and man's free will, angels and demons, prayer and miracles, and many more.

This course will be taught by Dr. Jelmer Groenewold who holds a DMin from Trinity Evangelical Divinity School and has been a pastor, student of the Bible, and Bible teacher for 37 years. The course will be taught in a traditional classroom setting with lecture and discussion. The classes will meet weekly for two hours for twelve weeks. Some students may be attending via video conferencing from a secondary location.

Being & Making Disciples

Jesus called every disciple to go out and make disciples (Matthew 28:16-20). It is in the process of making disciples that we become fully formed disciples. Most Christians would agree with this, but at the same time discipleship seems to be a lost art, at least in the western world. This course will restart your own discipleship while reframing your understanding of a biblical discipleship. Additionally, you will gain some practical tools for making disciples.

The course will be taught by Dr. Paul Fredericks who holds a DMin from Fuller Theological Seminary and pastors Covenant Presbyterian Church in Prosser, Washington. will be in a traditional classroom setting with lecture and discussion. The classes will meet weekly for two hours for twelve weeks. Some students may be attending via video conferencing from a secondary location.
